Find Your Next Three Colleges

A FREE COLLEGE RESEARCH GUIDE FOR LACROSSE FAMILIES

College choice is bigger than lacrosse. Use this guide to explore three schools you may not have considered, ask good questions, and identify what deserves a closer look.

1 Define what matters to you

Before searching, discuss your priorities. There are no right answers—your interests may change.

Academic interests / possible majors: _____

Preferred regions or distance from home: _____

Campus environment (size, setting, community): _____

Financial considerations or questions: _____

2 Discover three schools

Use LaxFinder to explore college lacrosse programs. Choose at least one school that is new to you. Then verify details on each college's official website.

	College 1	College 2	College 3
School name

Academic program(s) of interest
Lacrosse program / level
What sparked my interest?

3 Research beyond the map

For each college, look for evidence rather than relying on rankings or impressions. Use official college and athletic sites, and note the date you checked.

Research question	College 1	College 2	College 3
Does it offer my intended field of study?	☐ Yes ☐ Unsure	☐ Yes ☐ Unsure	☐ Yes ☐ Unsure
What are the admissions expectations?
What might attendance cost after aid?
What is the lacrosse experience like?
What else matters about campus life?

Think Like a Researcher

Good college research means comparing sources, identifying unknowns, and revisiting assumptions. Use this page to turn your first search into thoughtful next steps.

4 Separate evidence from assumptions

Choose one promising school. Record what you know, where you learned it, and what you still need to verify.

School: _____

What I found	Source / date checked	What I still need to know

5 Ask better questions

Try these prompts when reviewing official sources or speaking with admissions staff, students, or coaches:

- What academic support is available to student-athletes?
- Can I pursue my intended major alongside team commitments?
- What are typical costs, financial-aid options, and graduation outcomes?
- What would daily life look like if I stopped playing lacrosse?

6 Decide what to explore next

The school I most want to learn about: _____

My strongest reason (academic, personal, financial, athletic): _____

One important unanswered question: _____

My next action (website, campus visit, email, conversation): _____

Family reflection

What surprised you? Did this activity change your idea of what makes a college a good fit?

_____
